Yellow warning
Wind

Between 01:00 Tue 6 Jul 2021 and
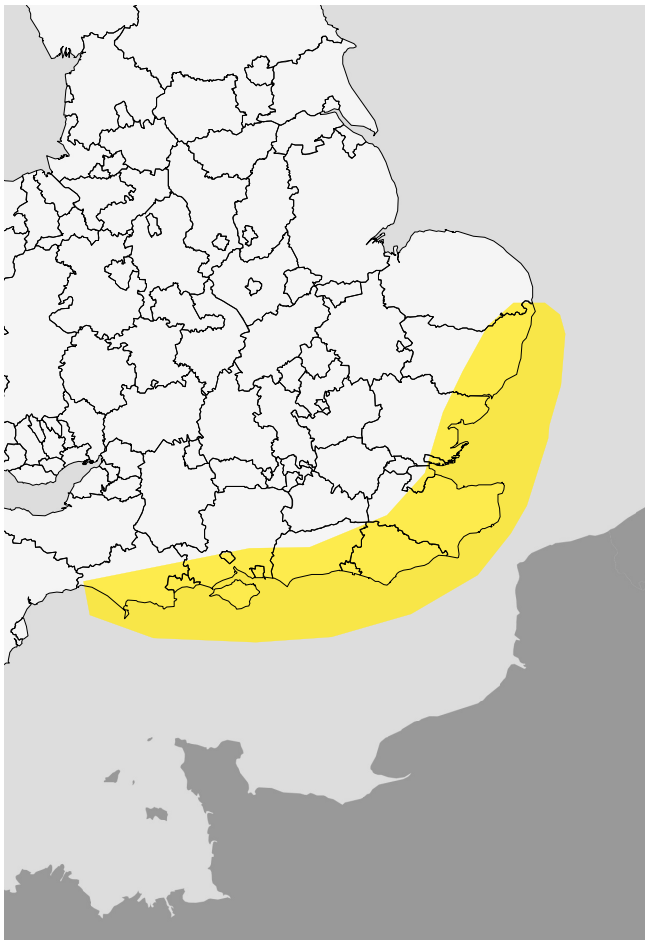
12:00 Tue 6 Jul 2021



Strong winds could bring some disruption across parts of the south.

What to expect

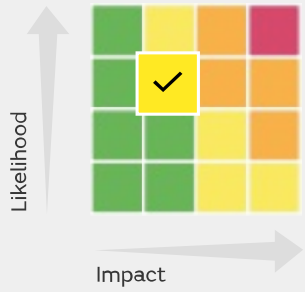
- Some delays to road, rail, air and ferry transport are likely
- Delays for high-sided vehicles on exposed routes and bridges likely
- Probably some bus and train services affected, with some journeys taking longer
- Some damage to temporary outdoor structures possible
- It's likely that some coastal routes, sea fronts and coastal communities will be affected by spray and/or large waves

Further details

An area of low pressure is expected to track across the far south and southeast of the UK from the southwest on Tuesday morning.

To the south and east of the low centre some unseasonably strong winds are expected, particularly around some coasts and hills. Here gusts may reach 40-50 mph which may lead to damage to temporary structures and transport disruption.

The strong winds will be accompanied by some heavy showers or rain for a time, before gradually moving northeastwards and easing from the southwest through Tuesday daytime.



Medium likelihood of low impacts
